NEW TEACHERS FOR COLLEGE

PHYSICAL EDUCATION AND HOME ECONOMICS VACANCIES FILLED

MISS MANLEY LEAVES

Popular Director Of Womens Work To Be Succeeded By Dr. Ethel Julia Saxman.

The announcement of two new faculty members was made at the State Teachers College this morning, to fill vacancies in the physical education and home economics departments.

Dr. Ethel Julia Saxman will become head of the physical education department for women and will fill the vacancy which will come when Miss Helen Manley leaves on August 1. Miss Manley, who has been at the College several years, resigned more than a year ago, but was pursuaded to continue until this August.

She will go from the College to a medical school and will study that profession, taking the M. D. degree at the completion of the required work. Miss Manley has been quite popular here and her leaving is a loss to the institution.

Miss Saxman, however, comes to the College here with an enviable reputation, both in training and actual practice. She received her preliminary school work at the Pennsylvania State Normal and later studied at the University of Pittsburgh and the University of Pennsylvania. She took her bachelor's, master's, and doctor's degrees from Columbia University, New York, with a major in physical education.

Miss Saxman has had nine years of teaching experience in Pennsylvania, New York, and Missouri. From 1919 until 1923, she was in charge of physical education for women at the Springfield, Mo., State Teachers College, and comes to Maryville highly recommended by that institution.

The other new faculty member is Miss Lucille Starr, a former teacher in summer schools here. She is a graduate of the University of Colorado with th A. B. degree. She has had several years of teaching experience. Miss Starr will hove charge of foods classes at the College. She taught here for three summers, the last time being in 1924.

Circuit Court Ends Work Until August 2

Sale In Partition Is Approved.—Grover Hatcher Bond Reduced.—Hahn-Ramey Case Appealed.

Circuit court adjourned late yesterday afternoon until Monday, August 2. Judge Guy Park of Platte City, who has been presiding at this session of court for Judge John M. Dawson, returned to his home last evening.

Proceedings in court late yesterday were:

Elmer Wing, et al, vs. Phebe E. Smith, et al, partition, the sheriff's report of sale was approved and the sheriff was ordered to execute a deed, which was acknowledged in open court. J. H. Sayler was allowed an attorney fee of $75, A. F. Harvey a guardian's fee of $10 and, by agreement, an abstract fee of $13 was allowed, all to be taxed as costs. Distribution of the proceeds of the sale was ordered.

State of Missouri vs. Grover Hatcher, assault with intent to kill, the defendant's bond was reduced from $2,000 to $1,500.

M. A. Hahn vs. Wm. Ramey, et al, replevin, a motion for a new trial was overruled. An appeal was taken to the Kansas City Court of Appeals and the appeal bond was fixed at $200.

Mrs. R. B. Prentice vs. Bert Warren, et al, attachment, plaintiff dismissed suit and judgment was rendered against plaintiff for costs.

Mary L. Maher, et al, vs. Rebecca J. McGarey, et al, an appeal from probate court, a motion to strike from the dochet was overruled. E. E. Williams was appointed executor pendate lite and his bond fixed at $4,000. The court refused to order the executor to take charge of 160 acres of land for the reason that it is subject to quarantine and dower.

Mrs. Robert Lyle returned home yesterday from a two weeks' visit with her daughter, Mrs. J. T. Jones, at Omaha. Mr. Lyle, with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lyle and their son, Harry Mason, motored to Omaha Saturday to spend the week-end, and Mrs. Lyle returned with them.

Installation Services at Presbyterian Church

Will Be Held At 8 o'clock Tomorrow Night—Sermon By Rev. Arthur J. McClung of St. Joseph.

The installation of the new minister of the Maryville Presbyterian Church, the Rev. William Nelson Dewar, will be held in the church at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening.

The sermon will be preached by the Rev. Arthur J. McClung of the Westminster Presbyterian Church at St. Joseph. The constitutional questions and the charge to the congregation will be delivered by the Rev. F. P. Brewster of King City, and the charge to the minister will be given by the Rev. K. R. Anderson of Oregon.

This is a very important occasion and it is expected that every member of the congregation will be present. The service is open to the public. There will be no regular prayer meeting this week on account of the service tomorrow night.

"KNOW US AS SERVICE MEN"

SO SAYS STATE COMMANDER OF AMERICAN LEGION.

SPEAKS AT COLLEGE

Organization Stands for Fundamental Things and Is For Everything Peaceful, Col. Stayton Says.

Members of the American Legion wish to be known as service men and not as ex-service men, Col. E. M. Stayton, commander for Missouri, told the student body at the State Teachers College at the regular weekly assembly this morning.

"When the last man of us is dead, when the final salute has been fired, when taps has sounded for the last time, let the world say, 'They were service men'," the colonel said.

"What the Legion Is and Is Not," was the state commander's subject. He spoke highly of the educational system of the country, calling it the first line of defense.

"The American Legion is behind the educational system," he said. "We are anxious to aid it. We want health education to be taught. Hygiene and prevention are two of our aims in this program of ours to decrease the death rate."

Colonel Stayton said that the secret of American leadership in the world is found in the ancestry of the people of this nation. It is the only nation in the world, he said, which was founded on principles of democracy. While others came after gold, our ancestors came after God, was his statement.

"The Legion believes in high standards of labor. It believes that the working man should be paid enough to enable him to educate his family and give it the same opportunities which are accorded other boys and girls.

"The Legion is participating in everything which makes for peace. We do not believe, however, that the millenium has been reached."

In speaking of military training, the colonel went on record as favoring it.

"I had military training and it did not make me have the desire to kill, or the so-called military spirit. What is this military spirit, anyhow. I don't know."

In speaking of principles of the Legion, he said, "We are sticking squarely to fundamentals. We believe in the old fashioned things. We believe in the Old Book. We believe in the constitution of the United States. In fact, we believe in everything for which the American flag flies."

Colonel Stayton came to Maryville late yesterday. He returned to his home in Kansas City shortly after his talk at the College this morning.

Gordon Joy Taken to St. Francis Hospital

Gordon Joy, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Joy of Ravenwood, a student at the State Teachers College here, was taken yesterday to St. Francis hospital suffering from an appendicitis attack. No operation has been performed as yet and his condition was fair today. His parents came to Maryville yesterday to be with their son. Mr. Joy is captain of next year's basketball team at the College.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hansen and daughter, Wilhelmina, motored to Clarinda, Ia., today to visit friends and to attend the fair.

PROCTOR HITS AT OPPONENTS

ATTACKS WILLIAMS, SPURNS "LOCAL BOSSES."

REPEATS DRY PLEDGE

Kansas City Senatorial Candidate Defends Own Record Before Small Audience of Republicans.

Reiterating his stand unqualifiedly in favor of prohibition and enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment, and taking a dig or two at "alleged local bosses," David M. Proctor, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator spoke at the courthouse last night to an audience of about eighty persons.

Proctor was introduced by Mrs. F. S. King, vice-chairman of the Republican county committee. Urging every citizen to express a choice, she declared, "You have no right to kick about your candidates if you don't turn out in the primaries."

The pledge which Proctor repeated was this:

"I stand unequivocally for the upholding of the Eighteenth Amendment. I will not vote for any legislation that will weaken or whittle away the Eighteenth Amendment, either in letter or in spirit."

Hits at Local Leaders.

The "dry" candidate several times referred to the "alleged political bosses of this town," charging that neither the state nor county chairman had ever received him on his visits here. After his address, W. R. Tilson, county chairman, came forward and explained that he had not presided at the meeting because he himself is a candidate for county office.

All I want," Proctor had declared, "is the support of the plain, unshackled people of this town. I don't want the support of any alleged little bosses."

The address touched lightly on other issues than prohibition. Proctor urged federal aid in developing a system of national or international highways, and for development of inland waterways. He declared for "strict law enforcement, but without passage of any considerable number of additional statutes."

"I am committed," he said, "to the policy of repealing all obsolete, overlapping and conflicting federal laws, followed by a codification of the remaining statutes."

A declaration for strict economy in government and belief in the "sane and constructive Republicanism of Calvin Coolidge" brought the speaker his first applause. He was applauded again on his declaration on farm relief:

Would Bring East to Terms.

"I am not going to vote," he asserted, "for any measure designed for the special benefit of the eastern manufactures, bankers and merchants, until their representatives in Congress shall evince a disposition to come to the rescue of the agricultural west.

"The only thing the farmer in Missouri is asking is that his shackles and fetters be removed. I am in favor of employing the protective tariff to aid the agricultural West just as it has aided the industrial East. Both parties have advocated such use of the tariff, and the Republican party must keep its pledge."

Swinging into the real burden of his speech, Proctor flayed his opponent, Senator George H. Williams, for his failure to take an unequivocal stand upon prohibition and also for his failure to make a direct answer to the charge that he had not supported Republican party nominees in the elections of 1918, 1920 and 1922. He declared that R. R. Brewster, Republican senatorial candidate in 1922, had told him personally, in Proctor's office, that he was convinced that Williams had not voted for him, although Williams was a member of the Brewster campaign committee.

A Challenge to Brewster.

"But Brewster says he is satisfied now," Proctor said ironically. "Yes, Brewster is satisfied. He has been given an anodyne. His son has been given a job in the district attorney's office. But I challenge Brewster, when he comes up here, to deny that he told me himself that he was sure Williams had voted for Reed. And I challenge him to prove that his candidate voted for Senator Spencer in 1918 or 1920."

Brewster is to speak in Maryville tomorrow night in the interests of Sen-

PROMINENT K. C. MEN HERE

TWO LAWYERS AND ENGINEER VISIT MARYVILLE.

TWO ARE CANDIDATES

Geo. H. Combs In Congressional Race And David M. Proctor In Senatorial Contest—Stayton Here.

Three prominent Kansas Citians were in Maryville last night and this morning.

They were George H. Combs, jr., Democratic candidate for Congress, Col. E. M. Stayton, state commander of the American Legion, a noted engineer and active in Democratic circles in Kansas City, and David M. Proctor, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator from Missouri.

Mr. Proctor delivered an address here last night and left early this morning for Kansas City.

Colonel Stayton delivered an address at this College this morning and visited a number of his friends in Maryville.

Although but 27 years old, George H. Combs, jr., is one of the most prominent attorneys of Kansas City. He was the principal attorney for Mrs. Alberdina Frank, a case which attracted national attention. He was accompanied to Maryville by his campaign manager. Ralph C. Curtis, who is in the investment business in Kansas City.

Mr. Combs was assistant attorney of Jackson County in 1922-23. This is the only public office he has ever held and he has an excellent chance of winning the Democratic nomination for Congress in the August primary. If nominated and elected, he will be one of the youngest congressmen in the history of the country. Mr. Combs was in Maryville on legal business. He is a native of Kansas City and took his law work at the University of Missouri and the University of Michigan.

Early Settler Near Skidmore Here Today

The Rev. Reuben Barrett First Came to Maryville 52 Years Ago—Can Walk Ten Miles.

The Rev. Reuben Barrett and Mrs. Barrett of Skidmore, accompanied by their nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. George Muir of Warren, Pa., were visiting in Maryville today. Mr. Barrett came to Maryville fifty-two years ago and settled on a farm five miles west of Skidmore. At that time there was no town of Skidmore nor any railroad at that place. After residing on the farm for about forty years, Mr. and Mrs. Barrett moved to Skidmore, where they have resided for about twelve years.

Mr. Barrett will be 82 years old on Sept. 15. He says he won't be any good unless he can walk ten miles.

Mr. Barrett says he made the stage trip from Maryville to Graham when John Bohart was the driver and it was after this time that he settled near Skidmore.

Burlington Train Is Derailed; None Hurt

New Truxton, Mo., July 21. — Two coaches of the Burlington "Nighthawk," passenger train from Kansas City, left the rails near here today but no one was injured. The cause of the derailment has not been determined.

J. D. Mathes of Tarkio was a Maryville visitor today.

CAPT. HYSLOP HAS BIRTHDAY

VETERAN REALTOR IS 83 YEARS OLD TODAY.

HONOR GUEST AT TEA

Friends Pay Floral Tribute at Baptist Parsonage.—Continues To Build Houses Despite Age.

Amid flowers, cards, and other remembrances from many friends, Captain Charles A. Hyslop, one of Maryville's oldest residents and the oldest active realtor, today celebrated his eighty-third birthday.

Captain Hyslop spent most of the day in his office, in the building which he owns, next to the Bainum Hotel, but at 4 o'clock he was the guest of honor at a sunset tea given at the parsonage of the First Baptist Church by the B. Y. C. class of the Baptist Sunday School. There he found more floral tributes.

"I think more of flowers than anything else except my friends and my Maker," Mr. Hyslop said.

At the reception were roses, gladioli, tiger lilies, sweet peas, pansies, nasturtiums and other blossoms, all contributed by Captain Hyslop's friends. Music was furnished by Mrs. Arch A. Carter of Cainsville, Mo., and Mrs. W. M. Westbrook of Marshall, both former Maryville residents, and a talk was given by the pastor, the Rev. Guy L. Prather. At 5 o'clock, a two course luncheon was served.

Captain Hyslop was born on July 21, 1843, at Penyan on Little Cayuga lake, in western New York. He narrowly missed being born on the Atlantic ocean, as his parents had arrived only a short time before from Scitland, of which both were natives. As soon as the mother was able, she and the baby, together with the husband's brother, s et forth for Carthage, Ill., by way of Fort Dearborn, now Chicago, and the Great Lakes, while the elder Hyslop and a companion drove a flock of sheep overland. From Fort Dearborn the mother and her child went to Carthage by wagon, camping at nights by the roadside. They reached their destination about a month before the husband arrived with the sheep.

A year later, the husband died, and the young Scotch widow was thrown upon her own resources. She was a "stay maker," according to Captain Hyslop—in modern language a maker of corsets. Some time later she married again.

In his own words, Captain Hyslop was "reared between plowhandles." Until he was 30 years old, he was a farmer, except for the time when he served with the Union army in the Civil War. He enlisted on his eighteenth birthday, sixty-five years ago today, with the Black Hawk Infantry in Hancock County, Illinois. This body later became the Black Hawk Cavalry and then the Seventh Missouri Volunteer Cavalry.

Captain Hyslop's servcie ended when he was wounded in the right breast by a pistol ball at Prairie Grove, Ark. His title of "captain" was not earned at that time but was bestowed upon him when he organized a company of men after his arrival in Maryville, during the administration of Governor Crittenden.

It was on February 15, 1874, that Mr. Hyslop arrived in Maryville. His brother-in-law, J. M. V. Shreve, had preceded him, and Mr. Hyslop joined him in opening the first exclusive boot and shoe shop in Maryville. It was not a paying venture, however, and after two years Mr. Hyslop started a fruit farm north of Maryville. It is known now as the Mutz farm and is one-fourth of a mile north of Oak Hill cemetery.

His Civil War injuries making active farm life impossible, Captain Hyslop returned to Maryville and for a time worked as a carpenter, then with the Smith Brothers drygoods store, which included a boot and shoe department. In 1881 he entered the real estate business and has followed it ever since.

Captain Hyslop boasts that he sold the first house in Maryville on the monthly payment plan. He has built or repaired many houses in the city during his long career and is now completing an apartment building which will bring to nineteen the number of families he can accommodate.

Mr. Hyslop has held the office of public administrator, was a justice of the peace for sixteen years and served one term in the State Legislature.

Chicago Heat Wave Claim 24 Victims

Relief By Thunder Showers Promised For Tonight—Number of Babies Succumb—Record Set.

Chicago, July 21.—With twenty-four deaths in Chicago and suburbs as a result of the record-breaking heat wave during the last two days, relief in the form of thunder showers is promised by the weather bureau today. The mercury has hovered around 90 since Sunday. Monday, the maximum temperature was 94.2 and made that day the hottest July 19 in the history of the local weather bureau. It claimed fourteen lives. Yesterday, the temperature was 95 and ten more persons succumbed to the heat.

The present torrid wave has been general over the Middle West. It is moving slowly from west to east. Five of the heat victims were babies less than a year old. The hospitals are packed with cases of prostrations. One man collapsed after playing eighteen holes of golf in the sun.

DEMPSEY TO MEET TUNNEY

FIFTEEN-ROUND BOUT AT CHICAGO SEPTEMBER 12.

FOR WORLD'S TITLE

George E. Brennan and Edward Kelly, Illinois Political Leaders, Associated With Tex Rickard.

Chicago, July 21.—Jack Dempsey will defend his title as world's heavyweight boxing champion in a fifteen-round bout here September 12 at the stadium at Soldier's Field against Gene Tunney, Tex Rickard of New York, promoter, announced today.

After a week's negotiations in Chicago, Rickard announced this afternoon that arrangements for the title bout have been completed and that he would appear before the Illinois commission in a few days asking a license for the bout.

He said he anticipated the commission would sanction the fight. Rickard said that George E. Brennan, Democratic candidate for United States Senator in Illinois, and Edward Kelly, another politician, would be associated with him in the bout's promotion.

Agricultural Country in Giant Combination

Plans for Organization Are Mapped Out at Meeting of Farm Leaders In Des Moines, Ia.

Des Moines, July 21.—The West, the Middle West and the South are to be organized into a giant combination for the purpose of defending agriculture.

Plans for such an organization were mapped out today by leaders of the corn belt committee in session here.

"Protection for all or protection for none," was the keynote of the committee adopting resolutions criticizing the national administration for what was described as a "short sighted policy" in regard to agriculture.

Des Moines today had become the center of agricultural activities for farm relief legislation. Both the corn belt committee and the committee of twenty-two are here with indications pointing to a union of their forces for the enactment of a tariff law and other measures by which they hope to bring relief to the farm belt. Leaders believe their voices are certain to be heard in Washington.

The committee of twenty-two accepted the same resolution adding their voices to the clamor for farm relief.

American Sightseers Attacked in France

Paris, July 21.—American sightseers on a bus en route to Mont Montre were attacked today by about one hundred residents who, it is claimed, resented their loud talk. The Americans fought back and were holding their own fairly well when the police arrived.

Passengers on another bus also were booed and hissed.

96 Yesterday

The highest temperature yesterday was 96, according to J. R. Brink, official weather observer.

HERRIOT RULE IS REPUDIATED

PRESENT GOVERNMENT DEFEATED 286 TO 237.

EXPECTED TO RESIGN

Came in Forty-Eight Hours Ago—Franc Shows Greater Power of Beating Back.

Paris, July 21.—Facing a hostile audience, Premier Herriot went before the Chamber this afternoon and delivered his ministerial declaration of policy realizing that it was probably a presage to his defeat.

The declaration was extremely brief and was not specific as to its purpose.

Deputies sat indifferently and listened without any indication or approval or disapproval. The only approval came from a handful of radical socialists.

"France intends to settle the debts she contracted in defense of her liberty in so far as her capacity of payments permits," said Herriot, touching on the question of inter-allied debts. "It is the view of this government that the country can save itself."

M. Herriot then asked for an immediate vote of confidence.

"Let us know immediately if you have a majority for another formula," he said.

Paris, July 21.—The Herriot ministry will resign tonight after its ministerial declarations of policy have been read in the Chamber of Deputies, according to a report circulated this afternoon by the semi-official French news agency.

The government, it is stated, has reached the conclusion that it cannot possibly secure a vote of confidence and will offer its ministerial declaration as a valedictory after a life of less than forty-eight hours.

Paris, July 21. — Showing greater power of recovery than it has in almost a fortnight, the franc, after opening at 50.09 to the dollar, a low record for all times, has climbed to 46.44 at noon today.

The relative steadiness of the franc is ascribed to the widespread belief that something drastic in the discussion of relieving the French financial chaos would be done before the day is over.

One of the possibilities was that a national union government, headed by former president, Poincare, would be formed. This government would have the support of a substantial majority in parliament. Another possibility was the establishment of a committee of safety, independent of parliament. This was being watched today by a bloc of some 250 deputies.

Brewster to Speak After Band Concert

R. R. Brewster of Kansas City will speak at the courthouse tomorrow evening after the band concert. The concert will be over at 9 o'clock. Mr. Brewster will appear here in the interest of the candidacy of Senator George H. Williams. He is expected to arrive here from Kirksville where he will speak tonight.

17-Year-Old Boy Held on Bad Check Charge

Leroy Hughbank, 17 years old, living eight miles southwest of Maryville, was arrested today for the authorities at Savannah. Hughbank is wanted there for writing checks. It is said the checks were written on his father but were not authorized by him and were turned down.

Scalds Foot While Washing; Recovering

Mrs. Alice Wilson, 321 East Seventh street, is improved today following an accident on Monday morning when she was severely burned by hot water. Mrs. Wilson was pouring hot water in a washing machine from which the cork had dropped out, the water scalding her right foot. She is still bedfast and not yet able to use the injured member.

Weather

Local thunder showers today or tonight, followed by cooler; Thursday mostly fair.

THE ONLY DAILY PAPER IN NODAWAY COUNTY

A BOY BUILT HOME.

The Real Estate men of Peru, Indiana, fathered a movement some time ago that has given the little city of Peru a great deal of favorable publicity and has demonstrated the practicability of high school enthusiasm when properly directed. The project now completed is called "Peru's Boy Built Home." It is a modern five room cottage with bath and garage attached and is entirely the work of the Manuel Training Department of the Peru High School.

When the project was proposed the donation of a lot was asked and was soon forthcoming from a local citizen who donated a lot. The plans were laid and the boys of the architectural drawing classes of the high school were put to work and they worked out the sketches, estimates, details and specifications under the direction of the supervisor.

Other boys put in the foundation and did the cement work under the direction of a cement contractor and still others did the carpentering and finishing under the supervision of a practical builder. The brick laying, plumbing and electrical work was done by trained craftsmen but the hand of the journeymen is said to appear in only a few places in this unique building. The industrial department of the Chamber of Commerce gave the boys practical aid.

The place will be sold and the profits will be donated to the High School Athletic Association to improve its field. The boys enjoyed the work and got a great deal of practical experience out of it and are proud of their success.

A 10,000 acre onion ranch is to be opened near Quincy, Illinois. This is enough to move the whole town to tears.

Analyzing the various cars now in use in the United States, a car manufacturer states that the average car in this country would be one of 121 inch wheel base and cost approximately $1535. Many people will doubt that the average cost of American cars is that high.

Devastated Regions Practically Restored

Washington, July 20.—France has nearly completed the restoration of the vast area which was devasted by the great war, according to a report to the Department of Commerce from Trade Commissioner D. S. Green, stationed at Paris.

The total of French Government funds actually disposed of covering property losses or damages under the plan of reconstruction and restoration is in excess of 79,000,000,000 francs, Green reported.

Proctor Hits at Opponents

ator Williams.

Mr. Proctor's remarks on party regularity evoked laughter.

"I have great respect," he said, "for the Democratic party as a political organization, but I neither shall surrender nor relax my Republicanism to vote for a Democratic United States senator nor to sit in the lap of a Democratic United States senator and engage in the purring of hybrid doctrines which belong in the region of molly-coddleism and partisan instability.

"I am willing Senator James A. Reed shall have all the clerks and stenographers he needs but I am unwilling for him to have as an assistant a senator from Missouri."

Declares Williams a Bolter.

"He bolted the party in 1918, he bolted the party in 1920, he bolted the party in 1922, and he bolted the Republicans in the Constitutional Convention in 1923," the Kansas Citian declared of Williams.

Defending his own party regularity, Proctor declared he had both worked and voted for Spencer in 1918 and 1920, and that in 1922, although he was defeated by Brewster for the nomination, he spoke for Brewster at his own expense and voted for him.

"In 1922, Mr. Dickey supported Brewster and opposed me, and he was a good man," said Mr. Proctor. "Now he is supporting me, and he is a bad man."

He referred to the Kansas City Star as the "official mouthpiece of T. J. Pendergast, an ex-saloon keeper."

Classifying other candidates on prohibition, Proctor said: "Mr. Hawes, the Democrat, says he wants beer without the saloon; Mr. Priest in the Republican camp says he wants both wine and beer and wants it any way he can get it; and Senator Williams says if he lived in Kansas he would be dry but since he lives in Missouri he'll be careful."

He denied that there could be beer without the saloon, and asserted that Missouri already had had referendums on prohibition and that the state was definitely dry. He cited the ratification of the prohibition amendment in 1918 and the question's submission to the voters in 1920, when the "dries" carried by 61,000 votes.

"Nullification the Issue."

"The wets," Mr. Proctor said, "realizing the futility of repealing the eighteenth amendment, now propose to nulify and trample it underfoot under the plea it can't be enforced.

"Any prohibition is difficult to enforce. The regulation of the old saloon was difficult and the Ten commandments are broken daily. But as an American citizen I am unwilling to hoist the white flag of surrender to any governmental problem merely because it is difficult. I'd rather walk the paths of private life than sit twenty-five years in the United States senate on a wet platform.

"Prohibition has bred an army of personal liberty and constitutional lawyers but I'm willing to meet all of them—Senator Reed, Senator Williams or Clarence Darrow—in debate on prohibition."

Mr. Proctor asserted the government has the right to place the general welfare above the personal rights of a minority, citing traffic regulations as an illustration.

Contending that "gasoline and alcohol do not mix," he said:

"We are living in a mechanical age. There are twenty-five million automobiles in the United States. Intoxicating beverages in this complicated mechanical, industrial period are a misfit. We might as well contemplate the adoption of the rattlesnake as our national pet as to consider the legalizing of intoxicants as a national commodity for beverage purposes.

"In my humble opinion, the Nineteenth Amendment giving the women the right to vote, has permanently riveted the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution."

Declares Sincerity.

Replying to charges of his opponents that he was not sincerely "dry," Proctor declared that in 1916 and in 1918 he had voted for state wide prohibition as a private citizen, and in 1918, as a member of the state senate, had worked and voted for the first state-wide dry law.

Discussing his vote against the McCawley bill of 1923, Proctor denounced its author with all the sarcasm at his command, then added:

"I'm proud I voted against that bill. If I had it to do over again my vote still would be in the negative. That joker clause made the McCawley bill a piece of treachery to the dry cause. And if I am elected United States senator and a similar so-called dry bill with a wet joker attached to it is presented I here pledge myself to vote and work for its defeat."

The "joker," he said, was a section exempting carrying of liquor on the person from prosecuting under the clause making transportation a felony. McCawley had explained it, Proctor said, as "protection" for fishing and hunting parties in case of snake bites.

Wrote Felony Section.

The speaker declared he personally wrote section 22 of the present law, which provided for penitentiary sentences instead of jail sentences and fines, and that 130 persons are now in the state prison under its operation.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTER

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writen

Washington—Whatever else one may think of prohibition, it's difficult to deny that dry enforcement machinery is expensive.

Representative Martin B. Madden, in putting its cost for the current fiscal year at $41,713,106, speaks with authority, as chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, which drafted the legislation for continued war on rum.

If anybody knows the figure, Madden does. He doesn't say "about" so much, either. He sets the sum down, to the last $6, and, if there had been any would have included the cents.

Representative A. J. Griffin, also an Appropriations Committee member, not long ago named $23,354,489 as this year's financial allowance in the interest of Volstead law enforcement, but Madden says Griffin omitted a great many items.

The matter took into account only the maintenance of the prohibition unit and the coast guard's dry activities.

Madden includes also the Justice Department's prohibition work and court and prison expenses growing out of the federal government's effort to dry the country up.

That $41,713,106 actually will be spent on prohibition during the fiscal year 1926-27 doesn't necessarily follow.

It's been appropriated, however, and experience teaches that seldom is there much left, by the fiscal year's end, of any government money whose use Congress has authorized.

If anything, it seems likely that enforcement officials will be pinched for funds, for their expenses have been mounting uninterruptedly, year by year, since the first prohibition appropriation of $3,375,000 was made. Last year it was thought an adequate allowance really had been made. Yet, for 1926-7, it was found necessary to increase it by $13,167,406, if Madden's bookkeeping is to be accepted as correct.

Cooper Gooden, on His Vacation, Writes of Harmony Vicinity and Jackson Township

(Cooper Gooden, Maryville Octogenarian, the oldest newspaper man in the county, is spending a vacation on his farm near Ravenwood and in other communities. Many years ago he wrote for the Nodaway Democrat under the pen names of "Fly by Day" and "Fly by Night." Today, under the pseudonym, "On the Wing," he writes of a visit to the Harmony neighborhood).

Jackson Township.

Editor Democrat Forum:—At the kind solicitation of E. C. McKee and to our delectation we accompanied him to his manor near Harmony Church where we will abide for a time and enjoy the pure country air. It makes one feel good to get away from the pent up city life and enjoy the balmy breezes that are wafted away from the sweet sunny south. We feel as though we were not in a strange community as we spent 29 years of our lives near where the Harmony community now is, but the church was not built until 1882. The people we know today are the children of the early pioneers who long since have joined the silent majority that passed on before.

This township is one of the garden spots of this great county. Many of the fine farms and stately mansions were not here in our young days; later people flocked to this county and to this township, which derived its name from the Hero of New Orleans. People coming here before the automobile, who abjured speculation and held on to the one work of raising and grazing cattle, swine and sheep generally made their piles.

I wish I could paint a picture as I see it; fine well worked roads over the hills and a green valley in the dim distance, where a beautiful river flows through large meadows, dressed in summer tints of emerald green, through which, like threads of silver, meander the shimmering waters of Platte river.

With the advent of the Diagonal Railroad, Ravenwood, "The Babe on Platte" sprang into existence and is now the metropolis of Jackson Township. This beautiful little city was laid out on a beautiful site and is gaining in prestige as it grows older. As to farming, there was very little wheat sown last fall owing to wet weather. Oats is a large crop and of a good quality. Corn will be king; it never could be better and is a grand prospect for a big crop. Small fruit was fine.

What Other Editors Say

A Little Talk on Thrift.

Are you saving money on your present income?

A great many people seem to be under the impression that the saving of money is largely a matter of income.

The fact is it is a matter of will-power and determination.

That most of the American fortunes of today were started with the savings of an individual whose income was extremely limited is stressed by S. W. Straus, president of the American Society for Thrift. Had these individuals waited until their incomes had increased before they began to save, they probably never would have progressed beyond mediocre advancement in the business world.

The man who is earning a small salary may feel that it is out of the question for him to save anything. He undoubtedly is of the opinion that if he were earning $10,000 a year he could save a substantial sum.

But the man who is earning $10,000 a year lives on a more expensive social scale than the $5,000 a year man, is surrounded by more demands and therefore, finds it correspondingly harder to save.

And so it goes throughout the whole range of incomes.

Many a man today looks back on the years when his earnings were much less than they are now, and feels that it would have been easier to save then than it is now.

It is not an easy matter for many to save. But it should ever be borne in mind that the mere matter of income has little to do with it. Many times has it been shown that those who are unwilling to make the sacrifices necessary to save on limited incomes are just as unwilling to make sacrifices when their incomes are increased.

Most men who have succeeded have had to do so at great odds.

Saving money on a limited income does require pluck. Because of this the savings take on additional value. It is not the amount of money that counts in the long run; it is the amount of character necessary to produce the savings.—Hannibal Courier-Post.

Lest we forget, it was the wisest man in the world who said: "Spare the rod and spoil the child." Self denial and self-discipline and self-restraint do not just happen. They come to the young man or young woman who was trained up in the way they should go. "Soft psychology," in childhood means a soft brain and a soft backbone in manhood. The kindest and most loving parents say "no" to the calls for ease and laxity made by youngsters. The indulgent parent reaps the bitter harvest of a worthless brood.—Centralia Courier.

Marine Officer Braves Bullets to Convince Men

Washington, July 20.—One of the bravest men in the world is Captain Victor Bleasdale, U. S. Marine Corps, who walks daily through heavy machine gun fire just to show troops the infallibility of machine guns.

Captain Bleasdale, a Blanc Mont veteran, walks through a ten inch wide lane, during a machine gun barage. He takes his stroll calmly, confident that the bullets do not vary in course after they are discharged.

By this courageous method marine troops are shown how close they can walk to a machine gun barrage, in making a surprise flank attack on the enemy.

The secret of the trick, Captain Bleasdale said, is simple. All you do is walk in a straight line. One step to the right or left probably would mean instant death.

Another stunt of the officer is to walk between the machine gun fire and targets to illustrate there is a dead space where troops will be safe under their own barrage fired overhead.

GRAND ARMY DELEGATES AVERAGE 83 YEARS OLD

Des Moines, July 20.—Fifteen thousand delegates are expected to participate in the 60th national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, at Des Moines September 19 to 24. They will average 83 years of age at their coming reunion.

"Ma" Ferguson's Rule in Campaign Spotlight

Heated Contest Is On in Texas and Has Become Duel Between Governor and Attorney Gen.

Austin, Texas, July 21.—Interest is centering today on Texas guberatorial contest in which voters will decide whether Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, Texas' first woman governor, will remain in the race to succeed herself.

The race has virtually dwindled to a duel between Gov. Ferguson and Attorney-General Dan Moody, who, last year, brought sensational charges against the Texas administration and, together with Lee Satterwhite, speaker of the house, sought to convene a spesial session of the legislature to investigate Gov. Ferguson's road-building program.

Mrs. Ferguson's sensational challenge to the attorney general that she would step down and out on Monday following the primary Saturday if she were beaten by even one vote continued today to hold the center of interest.

James E. ("Pa") Ferguson, the governor's husband, is vigorously stumping the state during the last few days of the campaign.

MRS. WILSON A HOME BODY

WIFE OF LATE PRESIDENT AVOIDS PUBLIC EYE

DAYS ARE ALL FULL

She Answers Every Letter Received—Retains Vigorous Physique and Sound Mentality.

Washington, July 21.—Edith Bolling Wilson, widow of the war President, is devoting her time to housekeeping, biography, letter writing and avoiding the public eye.

Her days are full, but occasionally Mrs. Wilson finds time to drive her electric automobile through the park to visit a few friends.

A friend disclosed today that most of her mornings are taken up with voluminous correspondence from friends all over the world. She answers all letters personally in longhand.

The quiet, middle aged woman who was married to Woodrow Wilson in his first term as president of the United States, retains her vigorous physique and mentality. She takes no active part in politics, but is nevertheless deeply interested.

Her family still occupies a leading place in her attention. Her stepdaughter, Margaret Wilson, engaged in social work in New York, visits her occasionally. Her brother, John R. Bolling lives with her in the same little brick house in which Woodrow Wilson died in February 1924.

Mrs. Wilson often makes quiet, unheralded trips to the unfinished national cathedral on the height of Mt. St. Albans, overlooking Washington, and places flowers over the crypt of Woodrow Wilson.

She does not appear in society, but she spends many evenings with her freinds, at their homes and hers. Senators Swanson and Class of Virginia her home state and that of Woodrow Wilson, are her closest friends.

Mrs. Wilson personally directs the housekeeping of her establishment, which includes a butler, a maid and a cook.

She is collaborating with Ray Stannard Baker, Amherst, Mass., author and one of the war president's closest friends, in preparation of a Wilson biography in four volumes. Baker frequently consults her. Two of the volumes are to be issued in a few years.

Wilson was a voluminous letter writer and his widow has many of his letters. The task of selecting the ones to be used takes much of her time.

Mrs. Wilscon seldom leaves Weshington, although she has made one trip to New York this year. She never speaks for publication.

Wants All Children to Have Home Advantage

Carrollton, Mo., July 21.—To give children under her care the advantages and attention that they would receive in a home of their own is the aim of Mrs. N. C. Redd, matron of the state home for neglected and dependent children here.

The state has purchased 40 acres 40 acres of land on the west edge of Carrollton and remodeled the house on the farm to accommodate 40 children. The home is on a hill, commanding a magnificent view of the town and the Missouri river beyond. The older children have a garden and keep cows and chickens.

Only children who have normal mental capacity but who have not had an opportunity to develop are sent here. Under the care of "Mother" Redd they soon gain in weight and then begin to make progress in their school work when they grow strong in body.

Junior Chamber of Commerce Very Beneficial to City's Young Men

The eighth annual convention of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce will be held in Omaha next June. It was held in Jacksonville, Fla., this year and in 1925 it was at Tulsa.

The Junoir Chamber of Commerce is a self-governing project organization of business men who are under 35 years of age and which provides its members practical training in effective citizenship, Chamber of Commerce procedure, and personal leadership, and brings them into constructive contact with the older business men to the end that their combined resources may be more effectively applied by co-operative participation in the improvement of community life.

The Junior Chamber movement had its inception in St. Louis. Andy G. Mungenast, one of the founders of the movement, both locally and nationally, was elected honorary vice-president at the Jacksonville convention. He is responsible for the extension movement in this section of the country.

Marshall is one Missouri city which the organization of an active Junior Chamber of Commerce resulted in much good to the community and the stimulating of interest in the Senior Chamber. One of the first accomplishments of the young men was to publish a very beautiful and elaborate illustrated book about the city and county which cost a great deal of money.

There are many community activities which are of particular interest to the young men and which they are well fitted to accomplish. Combining the enthusiasm and initiative of youth with the wisdom and caution of the older business men is an ideal arrangement for any community, large or small, for each helps the other and many big things can be accomplished that otherwise would be impossible.

Capt. Ed Condon "Backs Down" on Officers' "Mustache Order"

July 19, 1926.

Editor Democrat-Forum:

Well, it is pretty warm in the rear of this drug store in the fair metropolis of Junction City, Kansas, but I shall endeavor to make good on that promise of a daily letter as long as I can find the time.

The entire regiment has been on the job from dawn to dark and we go on the range tomorrow. Today was spent in policing up camp, drawing equipment and hauling the guns to the range. Everything is ready for the first problem which will be fired by Captain Condon—the man who issued orders for all officers to grow mustaches, but who will not grow one himself.

Speaking of our respected captain. It seems that at Boonville during the officers school of instruction about June 12th Captain Condon became ambitious for promotion, and started his advancement by "policing" the hat of Colonel Williams. The colonel, fearing for his position, today asked the captain to exchange. Everyone now has his name in his hat and the captain again wears the forty dollar hat Major Raynor "gave" him.

The battery continues to function in a manner very pleasing to its officers and to the regular army instructors. Mess continues to be far better than last year. The only trouble seems to be distinguishing mess call from drill call. Private Gibson today heard mess call blow and immediately asked Sergeant Howard "what do we do now?"

So far no accidents have occured. One of the horses received from the Kansas guard died today. Was sick when we received him and the hot sun proved too much for him.

Has been fearfully warm here today. A warm breeze, just enough to blow all papers and articles out of your tent, has been puffing dust in our faces all day. When the outfit came in from the range one could really see "the whites of this eyes." All else was black. The dust here is about 4 inches deep.

Must close and get back to camp. Perhaps when things get lined out, I will have more news and will be able to write a more interesting letter.

Sincerely,
H. F. Lawrence.

Three Men are Killed in Powder Explosion

Blast Near Carthage From 1,500-pound Mixture Containing Nitro-glycerin —Little Property Damage.

Carthage, Mo., July 21.—Three men were killed in an explosion at the plant of the Atlas Powder Co., ten miles southwest of this city, today. They were Thomas Dickson of near Joplin, Leaford Akin, who resides near the plant, and Jess Parsley of Duenweg. The deaths were caused by the explosion of a 1,500-pound mixture of 50 per cent nitro-glycerin in what is known as the punch house, where cartridges are packed.

The explosion was confined to the punch house and very little damage was done to the other property.

Four Local Persons Off to London Town

Delegation Leaves This Morning On Trip Sponsored By Kiwanis Club of Shenandoah, Ia.

Four Maryville persons are now on their way to Jolly Old London with the Kiwanis excursion from Shenandoah. They are: Misses Betty Turner, Jeanette Tate and Mildred Davis, and Harold Miller.

The train, in two sections, came through Maryville shortly before 9 o'clock this morning. In each section were eight coaches, two diners, and a baggage car, and each section was pulled by two engines.

Norvel Sayler of Hopkins was aboard the first train. As it went through Maryville, he dropped off the following note to the Democrat-Forum:

"On board Kiwanis train for Europe. Left Shenandoah at 7 a. m. Everything lovely and all hands on deck."

The large number of older persons was noticeable on the first section of the train. Many white-haired men and women looked out of the train windows as the section came down the track.

All of the Maryville travelers boarded the second section, which was occupied mostly by younger people.

The train carried 627 persons, according to the Shenandoah Sentinel. It will take the tourists to Montreal, from where they will sail Friday. They will go first to Quebec and then across the ocean.

Miss Turner and Mr. Miller both plan to go from London to Paris by airplane during the four days alloted them to do as they please. Both have promised to write letters to the Democrat-Forum, although Miss Turner admitted that her's might be no more than a postal card.

A number of persons from outside Maryville boarded the train at the depot here. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Harvey of Conway, Ia.

Some hundred persons were at the Wabash depot this morning to watch the trains come through here. The first section arrived about 8:30 o'clock and the second section came less than a half hour later.

The trains were making exceptionally good time. E. L. Ferritor, Wabash freight agent, reported that the first section went from Maryville to Bedison in 10 minutes.

Return From Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Lafe Stamper, with their grandchildren, James and Maude Masters, returned yesterday from a two weeks' visit with relatives of the latter at Monroe, Ia., and Mr. Stamper's sister at Morrison, Ia.

SAYS REVOLT "POPPYCOCK"

FESS DECLARES WEST NOT GOING TO RISE AGAINST EAST.

WOULD KILL MARKET

Author Of Unsuccessful Farm Relief Bill Laughs At Talk.—Will Re-Introduce Measure.

White Pines Camp, N. Y., July 21.—Talk of revolution of the agricultural West against the industrial East is purely "poppycock," Senator Simeon D. Fess, Republian of Ohio, member of the Republican Senatorial campaign committee and author of the administration's unsuccessful farm relief bill, declared here today.

The Senator was an over-night guest of President Coolidge.

"It is preposterous to think that the West is going to rise up against the East," he said. "Why, the farmers of the West could not live twenty-four hours without the East. It must be remembered that 92 per cent of everything produced on American farms is consumed domestically and that the East furnishes the largest percentage of the market."

In so far as the administration is concerned, Senator Fess indicated that it intended to stand pat on the farm policy advanced in the closing days of the last session of Congress.

The Ohioan will re-introduce in December his bill which would have created a farm board to study agriculture problems and create a 100-million-dollar revolving fund for loans to the farmers. Beyond this measure which received the formal indorsement of President Coolidge, Senator Fess declared the administration will not go.

Political wire pulling and gesturing through the Congressional campaign this fall will fail to sway the President and his advisors from the belief that such measures as the Haugen bill are economically unsound and would work far greater harm than good.

Iowa G. O. P. Expected to Indorse Brookhart

Meeting In State Convention Today. Delegates Are Believed To Be Preparing "Love Feast."

Des Moines, July 21.—As delegates to the Iowa state Republican convention met here today, there was little doubt evident that Smith W. Brookhart, as nominee for the United States Senate, would be received into the official bosom of the Iowa Republican party, whose state central committee two years ago repudiated him for his endorsement of La Follette and fought against him in the Steck-Brookhart contest.

It is known that the stamp of approval has been placed by party leaders upon the keynote speech of Dan Tucker, which endorsed Brookhart.

The senate platform, it is believed, will not contain an outstanding praise of Brookhart but would admit to the world he was the party's choice for the office and must be elected.

It is also very probable that a condemnation of the administration's attitude on farm relief would be contained in the resolutions.

Grover Anderson Is Shot by Hold-Up Men

Son of Maryville Couple Is Wounded In Arm When He Resists Robbery in St. Joseph.

Grover Anderson of St. Joseph, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Anderson of this city, was shot in the right arm when he resisted three holdup men Saturday night in St. Joseph. His condition was reported as very satisfactory. The story of the holdup as taken from the St. Joseph News-Press follows:

When he resisted three holdup men early Saturday night, Grover Anderson, 2023 Edmond street, was shot in the right arm. The robbers, driving a Studebaker touring car, crowded Anderson's car to the curb at Nineteenth and Felix.

"Stick 'em in the air," one of the three men in the Studebaker commanded.

"I will like——," Anderson retorted, as he leaped from his car.

One of the bandits fired, hitting him in the right arm between the elbow and shoulder. Then the three drove south on Nineteenth street.

Anderson drove to Central Police Station and reported the affair. He said he had $500 in cash and jewelry on his person, but lost nothing, and his wound is not serious.

Anderson is manager of the used car department of the Hudson-Tedlock Motor Company.

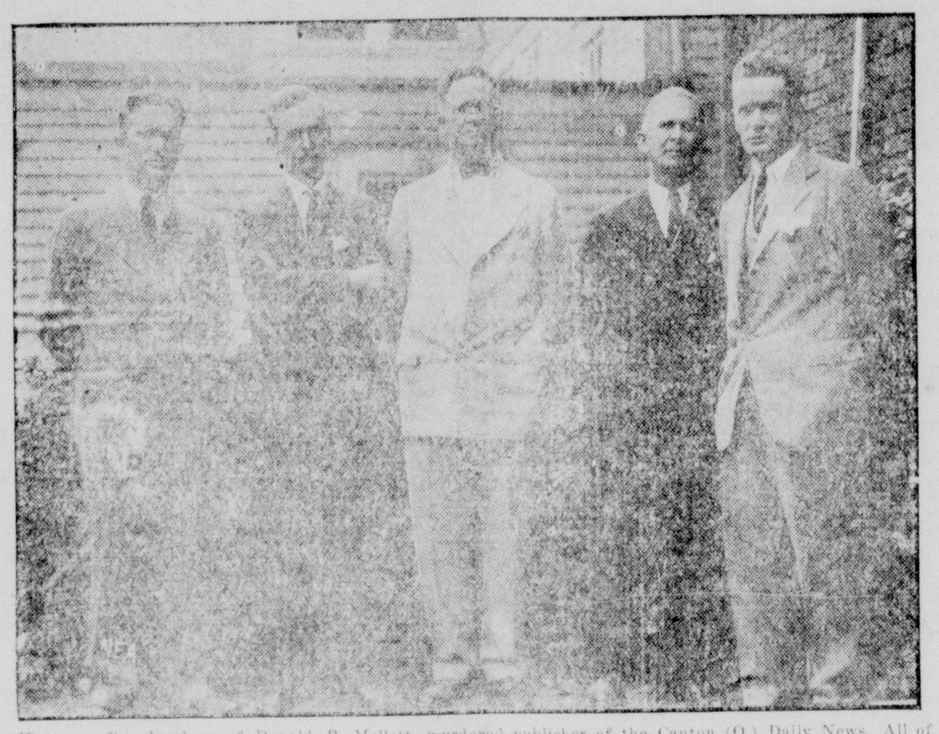
Sets New Half-Mile Mark

Dr. O. Peltzer, famous German middle distance runner, is here shown at the finish of his sensational half-mile effort when he hung up a new world record of 1.51 3-5, beating the old mark established in 1916 by Ted Meredith, former Penn star, by three-fifths of a second. D. G. A. Lowe, Britain's great Olympic ace, finished second. The event was sponsored by the Amateur Athletic Association at Stamford Bridge, London, recently.

Brothers of Murdered Canton Publisher



Here are five brothers of Donald R. Mellett, murdered publisher of the Canton (O.) Daily News. All of them are in newspaper or magazine work. Left to right, they are Lloyd Mellett, city editor of the Canton News; Lowell Mellett, managing editor of the Scripps-Howard Alliance of Washington; J. H. Mellett, Roland Mellett and John C. Mellett of Indianapolis.

Dr. Cumming and His Daughter

Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, surgeon general of the U. S. Public Health Service, whose newspaper articles on health are read by millions daily, returns to America on the liner Berengaria after a vacation abroad. With him is his daughter, Diana Cumming.

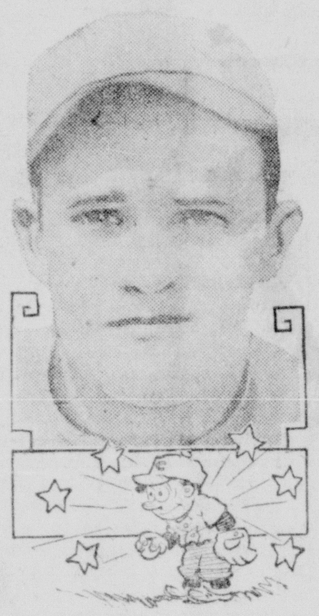
He Ties Major Record

Jacques Fournier, veteran first sacker of the Brooklyn team, leaped into baseball's spotlight of fame when he banged out three home runs in a game against St. Louis the other day. His efforts tied the modern major league record, and were responsible for five of his club's 10 runs.

Under Fire

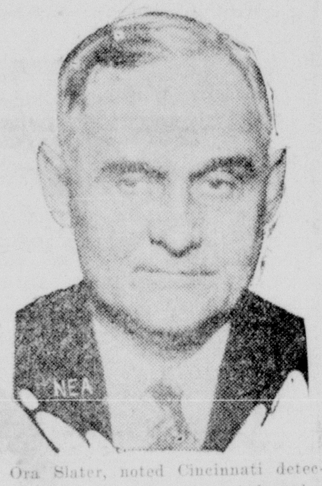
This is Chief of Police S. A. Lengel of Canton, O., who was bitterly criticized by Donald R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News, in the editorial campaign that led to Mellett's murder. Citizens now are demanding that someone besides Lengel take charge of the investigation of the murder.

Stars for Reds



One of the most important cogs in the machinery of the Cincinnati Reds this season is Fred Lucas, star right-handed hurler. Lucas has been doing his share to keep the Hendricks team in the running. Not only has he won a bunch of games through fine work in the box, but his timely hitting has turned in more than one victory.

On the Trail



Ora Slater, noted Cincinnati detective, has been retained to help solve the murder of Donald R. Mellett, murdered Canton (O.) publisher. Slater, who won fame by solving the Jake Nesbit murder case at Troy, O., was retained by the Scripps-Howard Newspapers of Ohio, who later surrendered their claim on him to the county prosecutor at Canton.

SYNOPSIS

Big Tim Burke, real estate operator, and known to his associates as a land pirate, discharges one of his young lieutenants called Pol Gaillard, because he is irritated by the latter's sleekness and nonchalant manner. Pol learns that his ex-boss covets a desirable piece of Long Island property owned by Professor Husted and that another land shark, Michael Cadrigan, is after the same bit of land. Cadrigan lives on the shore of Long Island sound with his step daughter, Veronica. His estate is across the bay from that of Professor Husted. The old professor lives like a hermit and Veronica is his only visitor. Cadrigan asks Veronica to discontinue calling on the old man, intimating that the professor's enemies may harm her. Noticing a sloop anchored opposite the house, Veronica suggests to her stepfather that they call on the owner. They are invited on board and their host introduces himself as Pol Gaillard, posing as an itinerant poet and artist.

Pol is invited to dine with the Cadrigans and through Veronica meets Professor Husted. While calling on the professor Pol's boat is cut adrift. He recovers it, but the next night an attempt is made to sink it. Professor Husted invites Pol to stay at his house. Pol accepts, but later goes back to his boat, as he feels his interest in the professor's affairs has disturbed the old man. Pol pays his dinner call on the Cadrigans. Veronica is out and Cadrigan receives him. During the conversation Pol uncovers his animosity toward Cadrigan and they quarrel.

That night, fearing an attack on the professor, Pol goes to Husted Point. That night Veronica goes to Prof. Husted's house in spite of a warning from Pol to stay away. When Veronica refuses to leave, Pol tells her he expects Cadrigan to make an attack on him that night. While they are talking Cadrigan arrives, and Veronica hides in the hall.

INSTALLMENT XXXVIII.

Too Much For Cadrigan.

Cadrigan stirred uneasily, swallowed drily, then asked, "What did you learn?"

"Through your own clumsy covetousness. First of Count di Carsoli's wife, then of the property of a man who had always loved her hopelessly. The first thing that happened to me here was your curiosity about myself. You learned my name and could not help but associate it with a former victim. My boat was cut adrift, a hint to leave. When I declined to take it, she was sunk, a pressure to leave. Professor Husted offered me the hospitality of his house. While here, somebody painted what might have been intended for a stiletto on the floor. It was not meant for a stiletto. It corresponded roughly to one of those crossed imprints that are visible in this slanting light on the wall over the mantel."

"Good God!" muttered Cadrigan.

"Your groom was spying on Veronica when she came here. This gesture of yours was a blind to indicate that you feared some hostility from the Italians you employ. They were supposed to have been painting the stilettos. Luigi, your butler, formerly the count's devoted servant, painted them. You had persuaded him, or perhaps he knew the count had not been murdered precisely, but killed in a duel. Luigi painted them while wearing one of your fine cast of flannel shirts similar to the one you loaned me. He got some paint upon the sleeve, and gave the shirt to Tomasso Spinelli with some clothes Veronica gave to Gulia.

"Now to hark back to the trial. At the time of the count's death, Professor Husted had returned from Germany and was living here. He worshipped the count's wife from afar. Stories were circulated and slanderous tales fomented of the count's low infidelities, his frequentation of the Italian laborers in your employ, and his familiarity with their women.

"He was a careless man, though not a bad one. But such tales would have infuriated the professor, himself a militant nature and as you yourself informed me the best swordsman of his student corps in Heidelberg. The though of violence would not have appalled him, and the chance of losing his life to free the woman he loved from odious and humilitating conjugal life would have attracted him. I saw myself the fighting features of his face when I beat yourgroom.

"Now what could have been easier, Mr. Cadrigan, than for you to have percipitated a quarrel between the professor and the count? The European idea of the duel was not the least bizarre to either. They fought, probably here, and the count was killed. You represent to the professor his danger and his sin. Although an atheist, he was actually at heart a man of overwhelming conscience. You persuaded him that his act had been an act of madness. Partly as a penance, he permitted himself to be committed to the retreat. There may have been an element of fear, not for the penalty of his crime, but that the woman he adored and the little girl he had learned to love would learn that the blood of the husband and father was on his hands. You had hoped to hold this and the fear of punishment as a blackmail to get control of his property. But for some reason this failed. He was no fool, and he may have realized that a man adjudged insane could not afterwards be tried and convicted for murder. You must also have feared his involving you in the affair which would have destroyed all hope of one object of your covetousness—the widow."

Cadrigan's head had sunk lower, not in shame, but a profundity of thought. His eyes looked dead and hollow.

"Years passed," said Pol. "You despaired of doing anything about the land. Perhaps you thought Burke might be a useful ally or perhaps Burke came to you. I should say it was Burke who suggested getting the professor adjudged of unsound mind and empowered legally to administer his property. Money was spent freely to accomplish this, yours or Burke's, or both. It seemed a better chance to restore the professor to his own, then hound him out of it by persecution, petty or grave, or possibly to make use of your step-daughter as your tool. Luigi was still your dupe. He had the loyalty of his kind for his old master, though no doubt, from his viewpoint, a duel was after all a duel and not an assassination. The professor would have had some vindication in Luigi's eyes, hate him as he might as the slayer of his feudal lord. These other Italians never had anything at all to do with the persecution of the professor, though they felt animosity for him as an obstruction to their interests. You took good care of that, Mr. Cadrigan."

Cadrigan leaned forward. "And yet you do not believe I dare remove you?"

"No, Mr. Cadrigan. I do not even give you that much credit. I have believed from the first and I still believe that you are a coward. That you have not the nerve to do this thing."

Cadrigan rose hastily. "Then, by God, I will show you that you are wrong. I shall burn this house and all in it."

He stood glaring at Pol, and in that moment there rose from behind him a wail that started slenderly, mounted, swelled, and beat upon the ear drums of the two men in a note of poignant anguish like that of a soul in everlasting torment. Nightingale had seen the bloodmist sworling from the aura of Cadrigan.

It was too much for Cadrigan. His knees shook under him so that he seemed about to fall. Then, recovering himself, he gripped at the edge of the table, regained in some measure the propulsive force required to take him from that place. In his frenzied haste to be gone, he did not even think of releasing Pol. He turned and lurched for the kitchen door.

He burst through it and in the lull of the gale Pol could hear his heavy footfalls pounding away on the hard packed trail.

Veronica came whirling into the room with a wild flutter. Luigi, at her heels and screaming maledictions, snatched a knife from some part of him and darted for the back door. Pol's own resonant roar arrested him, "That man is mine."

This checked Luigi, who had not only a feudal sense of authority, but an even greater respect for priority of right in the matter of vendetta. Luigi quickly freed Pol from his bonds, and Pol rushed to Veronica's side. She was having hysterics, and making a finished job of it.

"Stop it, Nica. You'll have him back to see what it's all about . . . . and then I'll have to slaughter him."

Though not precisely soothing, these words had an immediate effect on Veronica. To Pol's astonishment, she put aside her hysterics with the abruptness of a child romping with a noisy toy who desists from the exercise at a stern admonitory word from its parent. She darted across the room, out of the door, and up the stairs.

Luigi gave Pol a burning look, and asked, "Why do you not let me take him, signor?"

"Take whom?" Pol demanded.

"Signor Cadrigan."

"And not Professor Husted?" Pol asked.

Luigi shook his head. "He has always been a little mad. Besides, Signor Cadrigan made him believe that the count was maltreating his wife."

"Tell me what you know about the affair, Luigi. Shut the door."

Pol dropped down into the professor's big chair. Luigi stood before him. In his black suit with his deep lined face and burning eyes, he looked like the sinister emissary of some secret order come to report evidence that should mark another victim for removal. Perhaps that was precisely the attitude of Luigi.

Pol did not fit into this picture. His expression was sleepy again and his attitude relaxed and listless. He nodded slightly.

"You knew your master had been killed in a duel?"

"Si, signor. Besides the wound that pierced his heart, there was a slight cut on the top of his left shoulder and another on his right elbow. Also when the body was found, it was without coat or vest or collar and cravat. The shirt was unbuttoned at the throat, and the right sleeve rolled up above the elbow. That was enough for me. Also the mortal wound had not gone through the heart but merely into it. An assassin drives his dagger deep."

WHY BABIES NEED A DAILY SUN BATH

Ultra Violet Rays Help to Increase An Infant's Red-Blood Cells and to Build Up a Vitality That Resists Disease.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator From New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

A few days ago I read the statements made by two Canadian physicians. I am in hearty accord with what they say.

These doctors were in attendance upon the American Health Congress at Atlantic City. One of them, Dr. I. N. Harris of Toronto, said: "Solicitous shielding of children's skins against the sun is a crime against nature."

The other, Dr. F. Tisdall, said this:

"The sooner mothers learn to expose their babies to the sun until they are 'tanned as brown as bears', the better it will be for the youngsters. The majority of people in the United States and Canada suffer during the Winter and Spring from lack of sunlight and that accounts for the high mortality of these months."

Both doctors pointed out the importance of the ultra-violet rays in the sunlight. They stated that these rays add to the phosphorus content of the blood and the calcium in the bones. By this they mean that when the sunlight streams upon the body it imparts some power to the blood by which it more readily carries these necessary minerals to the tissues of the body.

These peculiar qualities of the sunlight appear to have some effect in increasing the red blood cells. At the same time they increase the power of the blood to kill bacteria and to cleanse the body.

"We must persuade all mothers," these doctors said, "to put their babies in the sun. Careful experiments have shown that it will not hurt the babies' eyes, as has been supposed."

We have long known that rickets, one of the diseases babies have, particularly virulent during the Winter and Spring, can be cured by sunlight. There is something about the sun's rays which has the same effect upon the body of an infant that cod liver oil has when it is given in regular doses.

I wish the message of these doctors could be carried to every mother in the world. It is a great pity that so many infants are kept from the sunlight. They are guarded against the energizing and health-giving power which is beyond all words to describe.

During the Summer I hope all the babies who are brought under the influence of anything I may say will be given lots of sunlight. Spread a sheet on the grass and let the child kick and creep and sprawl all he likes in the bright rays of the sun. There is no doubt about the good which will be done by this sensible treatment.

Now, dear mother, don't overdo this to begin with. The skin of a baby is very delicate and until he gets used to the sunlight he may suffer from sunburn just as you would. In a baby this is much more serious than in an adult. But give the baby a few minutes in the sunlight every day, increasing the time until the baby does become tanned and brown.

Harmony

George Hudson of Des Moines, an uncle of Mrs. Halley Ford, was visiting at the Ford home last week. Mr. Hudson was returning from Florida where he had gone for his health.

Mrs. John Anderson and son, Victor, were trading in Maryville last Friday.

Clint Davis and wife were calling on friends in this neighborhood last week. They drove down recently from Lamoni, Iowa, where Mr. Davis is in business. They were accompanied by Mildred and Walter Davis.

Oral Porter spent the most of last week on the farm of his brother, Floran west of Parnell helping with the farm work.

Halley Ford went the last of the week to the peach region of the Ozarks, expecting to bring back a car of early fruit.

Miss Maude Kibbe conducted orchestra practice Friday evening and returned to Maryville Saturday afternoon; only two more weeks remain for orchestra work under Miss Kibbe. Our musicians have made remarkable progress this summer under her instruction, and the public will have a chance to hear them in a concert appearance Friday evening, July 30. This musical will close the work of the term.

Edgar Flanary and family were trading in Maryville last Saturday.

Rev. Underwood and family started Tuesday, July 3 on a three weeks' vacation trip to parts of Oklahoma and Texas. Owing to his absence there will be no preaching the two Sundays following their departure, but Sunday school will be as usual.

Ogle McKee and Lucile Lawson now play regularly with the Ravenwood band.

Mrs. Nettie Stewart, a former superintendent of the Harmony high school was visiting friends in this neighborhood Saturday and Sunday. Mrs. Stewart is attending the summer session of the S. T. C. at Maryville and will resume her work in a Government Indian school in New Mexico Sept. 1.

The numerous friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis met at the church last Friday in honor of the fiftieth wedding anniversary of this worthy couple. A large number were present and the day was spent in visiting and in reminiscences. A splendid dinner was one enjoyable feature of the occasion. Jim Carpenter was present and pictures were taken of those who made up the list of friends.

The Castile 4-H Club met Wednesday, July 14 at the Arta Craven home with Miss Dorothy as hostess. They were seven members present: Genie Neal, Audrey Brown, Genevieve Anderson, Trevelle Griffey, Dorothy Alice Craven, Bessie and Edna Saunders and the leader, Mrs. Ruth Cox. There were two visitors present, Mrs. Myra Craven and Marjorie Partridge. The meeting was called to order by the president, Genevieve Anderson. Work was then resumed on dresser scarfs and pillow slips; a social hour was enjoyed and dainty refreshments were served. The next meeting will be with Bessie and Edna Saunders, July 28. This club is one division of the Ho-Atch-Away organiaztion, and is in general charge of Mrs. Fleetwood.

Miss Virginia Edwards entertained with a Sunday dinner the following friends: Lucile Lawson, Ogle McKee, Maxine Edwards and Kathryn Lewis. The following boys were present: Leon Brown, Donald Neal, Doyle Thomas and Ross and Howard Edwards.

The family of W. I. Lewis, Wilbur Cox and wife and the mother were entertained at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. John Green last Sunday.

The families of Alva and B. S. Cox journeyed to New Hampton last Sunday to visit Miss Hazel Cox, who is giving band and orchestra lessons there this summer.

Audrey and Marie Mason of Kansas City will visit during vacation time with the family of their sister, Mrs. B. K. Lewis.

Mrs. Nettie Stewart, who was at one time superintendent of the Harmony High School, visited friends and renewed acquaintances in this neighborhood last Sunday. Mrs. Stewart now teaches in a Government Indian school in New Mexico.

Bobby Neal King was an attendant at the Sunday school services last Sunday morning.

G. H. Null and family visited a sister of Mr. Null, Mrs. Wiley and his brother, Prof. Wilbur Null, at Cameron last Sunday, returning home that evening. Prof. Null is an instructor in Mo. Weselyan College at that place.

What's In A Name? Millions---For Marys

A Few of Hollywood's Famous Marys

Movie Folk Hold It Sure Sign of Luck.

By Dan Thomas.
NEA Service Writer.

Hollywood, July 21.—What's in a name?

Millions—if your name happens to be Mary.

Out here in the film colony they're superstitious about names. And especially about Marys. If a film aspirant is named Mary, they figure her battle is half won.

Mary, as the song used to say, is a grand old name. Nothing fancy; just an every day, staple name, unpretentious and plain.

But it has it all over the Gwendolyns and Lynettes and Vyvyans and Odettes. If Mary Smith comes to Hollywood to enter the movies, she'd better think twice before she changes her name to Dolores del Pipperino. Few Marys ever fail in the movies.

Perhaps the queen of them all is Mary Pickford. "America's sweetheart" made her bow as an actress in her native city of Toronto, Can., at the age of five. Her first appearance in motion pictures was with D. W. Griffith in 1912.

Prosperous Ever Since.

Since then Miss Pickford—or more properly, Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks—has tasted nothing but success. She has had the touch of Midas. She organized the Mary Pickford Company, of which she is the principal owner, in 1918. Today it is one of the best money-makers in the business and most of the profits go to Mary—in addition to the salary she pays herself.

Mary Miles Minter migrated here from Dallas, Tex., when only 16 and entered the movies. Before retiring several years ago she amassed a fortune of more than a million dollars.

Young Mary Brian, not yet out of her "'teens," is another of the fair sex to prove the value of a name. She also hails from Dallas, having spent most of her girlhood days riding the plains with neighboring cowboys. Mary had hardly arrived in Hollywood before she won a beauty contest that launched her on a celluloid career. She rose to fame almost over night in the role of "Wendy" in "Peter Pan."

From Chicks to Stardom.

From taking care of little chicks on an Illinois poultry farm, Mary Astor has risen to a place among filmland's notables. Success has met her at every turn in the road.

She made her debut in motion pictures in New York, playing in a series of one-reelers. With the signing of a contract with Famous Players-Lasky several years ago, Mary's future was assured. Her most recent appearance is with John Barrymore in "Don Juan," having been loaned to Warner Brothers by First National, whose contract she now holds.

"It was just in the stars that I was to get this part." That's what Mary McAllister thinks of her good luck charm.

She played opposite Harold "Red" Grange in "The Halfback," which has just been completed. Many of Hollywood's picture stars sought this role with the famous grid hero but it was just another case of a "Mary" victory.

Started When Only 15.

Mary Philbin absorbed considerable quantities of soft coal soot while attending grade and high schools in Chicago. But Hollywood's sunshine—and the makeup box—have wiped out all traces of the smoky city. Mary's first bit in pictures was at Universal in 1921 when she was only 15. Now she has a starring contract with the same studio.

If you want to know what's in a name, ask any of those whom I have mentioned. None of them would give up "Mary" even for the proverbial "pot of gold."

Physician Advises People

"My wife suffered for years with stomach trouble which did not yield to any treatment. She took a dose of MAYR'S Wonderful Remedy last Saturday with wonderful results. I have practiced medicine for 20 years and have never seen anything like it before. I have recommended MAYR'S to several that I know need this treatment." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at all druggists.—Adv.

FARM GLIMPSES

By BILLY TILSON

Charles Blagg, north of Graham, says corn looks like a great yield in that vicinity. Farmers are busy with their alfalfa and timothy and clover hay. Threshing is just starting but that will not be a very long job.

Ernest Mitchell, northeast of Wilcox, was in the city yesterday. They will not start their threshing machine until next week. He says farmers are getting their hay out of the way. Grain will not be very heavy up in that vicinity.

Ed Allen, near Conception Junction, was transacting business in Maryville yesterday. Mr. Allen reports corn looking fine down that way but a good rain is beginning to be needed. He says stock of all kinds are doing fine and it looks like a good year for the farmers.

Farmers over in the vicinity of Skidmore were busy haying Monday. The second crop of alfalfa was making a good yield. Oats are going to make a fair yield and while wheat is going to be light it will be of a good quality.

Loren Pfeiffer had his field of wheat threshed yesterday, the machine going from there to the Smith boys' field on the Goslee farm, east of Skidmore. These are among the best fields of wheat in that community.

Hugh McDonald, southeast of Quitman, had his wheat threshed yesterday. The T. I. Bird machine is doing the threshing in that locality.

Harry Zook, west of Pickering, has as fine a 210-acre field of corn as one would wish to see and it has every appearance of a bumper yield. Only about three acres in all that field looks bad.

The second cutting of alfalfa is being put into the mow and stacks all over the county and in most places is making a good yield. Those that are fortunate enough to have a few acres will have an immense lot of good feed for the winter.

John Dowden, near Myrtle Tree, finished putting up his second crop of alfalfa yesterday. He says he has got ten forty big loads off the field this year.

Pearl Logan, southeast of Skidmore, has the finest field of oats that we have ever seen grow on Nodaway County soil and am anxious for them to be threshed to see what the yield will be.

Mort Carden of Skidmore has out six acres of melons and large watermelons can be seen growing on the vines. Mr. Carden expects to supply that part of the county with melons a little later on and says when they get ripe he doesn't want any piffering around that patch. If you haven't the money in your "jeans" to buy a large juicy one just come to the house and he will present you with one. That's fair, Mart.

A. J. Wells, southeast of Skidmore, had a force of men Monday putting up his alfalfa hay. It is making a good yield. Alex has a fine bunch of heavy steers in the feed lot and also a nice bunch of hogs. He is fast getting them ready for the market. He has a wonderful crop of growing corn. In fact, there are several great fields of corn in that community. George Money and O. M. Ashford both adjoining, have great prospects for a bumper crop.

Paris—Citizens of Monroe County will vote next November on the question of continuing a tax on their 1500 dogs. Owners of the animals recently presented a petition for a vote.

Fredericktown—The sale of the municipal light plant here to a big corporation has been approved in a special election by a vote of 395 to 109. The price was $100,000 with light concessions to the city.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, July 21.—With the exception of oats, all grains closed lower on the Chicago Board of Trade today when wheat values continued to slump.

The grain was under pressure early in the day as a result of cooler weather and the showers in the Northwest, the lower Liverpool cables and weaker cash prices.

The prediction of cooler weather and rain for the corn belt caused heavy liquidation in that pit. Losses of from 1⅜ to 4¼ cents were recorded on the close.

Oats were dull but maintained their price levels unchanged.

Provisions closed uneven.

WOULD ALTER CRIMINAL LAW

PROPOSED NATIONAL REFORM WOULD AFFECT MISSOURI

URGED BY COMMISSION

Detailed Check of State's Present Statutes Shows Changes Necessary to Speed Justice.

Most of the 20 proposals of the National Crime Commission, for reform in the code of criminal procedure, would require a change in the laws in the State of Missouri. The reform proposals formed the report of the National Crime Commission sub-committee, headed by Chancellor Herbert S. Hadley of Washington University, and were presented at the meeting of the American Bar Association in Denver.

The proposals, as published, were accompanied by statements of the sub-committee, which related to conditions in most of the states. Following is a list of the proposals in outline, with their relation to present law or custom in the criminal courts of Missouri:

Bar Proposals vs. Missouri Law.

1. Immediate public hearing before a magistrate for every person arrested on a felony charge.

Missouri has no such system. After an information is issued, the prisoner may have a preliminary hearing. Up to that time, if confined, he is subject to police questioning.

2. Elimination of verbage in indictments.

Indictments in Missouri courts are drawn in archaic and verbose form, and and omission of a word or phrase has sometimes been held to invalidate an indictment.

3. Strict requirements of bondsmen, with speedy collection in case of forfeiture.

The proposals go beyond the Missouri system of handling bond matters. In this State, a forfeiture goes over at least to the next term of court.

No Paid Public Defender.

4. State to employ a Public Defender, or to pay lawyers to defend those unable to hire counsel.

Counsel for needy defendants serve free of charge in Missouri courts, and are usually young lawyers seeking experience.

5. Same right for State as for defense to disqualify trial judge for prejudice.

This now exists in Missouri.

6. Juror who has formed opinion, from reading of case, not to be disqualified if trial judge thinks him capable of giving impartial verdict.

This depends on judges, in courts of this state. Some judges overrule challenges of jurors who, though having formed opinion, declare it will not influence their verdict.

7. State and defense to have same number of jury challenges.

Defense has more challenges than the State, in Missouri courts—in larceny cases, defense has eight to the State's four; in robbery cases, 12 to 10, and in murder cases, 20 to 15.

8. Defendants charged with joint crimes to be tried jointly, unless court holds that this would work an injustice.

Judges in Missouri must grant severance whenever asked by any defendant.

Point of Sharp Divergence.

9. Defendant, if he testifies, shall be subject to cross examination as any other witness, and if he does not testify, the prosecutor may comment to the jury on that fact.

This would be a complete change from the present procedure here. The State is now limited, in cross-examination of a defendant witness, to matter on which he was questioned in direct examination. It is now reversible error for a prosecutor to allude, in the jury's hearing, to a defendant's failure to testify.

10. State may take depositions in criminal cases.

Only the defense has the right to introduce depositions in Missouri courts. This is in line with constitutional requirement that defendant shall be confronted with the witness against him. It might be possible to frame a statute safeguarding the defendant's rights and making the provision suggested.

11. Defining the presumption of innocence.

This is practically as now defined in instructions of Judges to juries in this State.

Judges Merely Advisers.

12. Judge to have power to comment on evidence, testimony and character of witnesses.

Judges now have no such power in this State, being permitted only to advise juries as to the law. The system proposed is that of Federal courts. A bill is now pending in Congress to take away power of Federal Judges to comment on evidence, which would reduce their powers to those of State Judges.

13. Five-sixths' jury verdict sufficient to convict of all felonies except those for which the death penalty is fixed by law. Jury to convict, Judge to fix penalty. Defendant may waive trial by jury, and be tried by Judge.

Unanimous verdicts now required in Missouri criminal courts. Jury convicts and fixes penalty. Defendant can escape jail only by pleading guilty.

14. No conviction to be reversed except for material error, resulting in miscarriage of justice.

Missouri has a statute of this character, which does not go quite so far as that suggested.

Delays in Appeals.

15. More speedy handling of appeals.

One year is allowed to perfect appeals in Missouri, and there are various opportunities for delays.

16. Prompt setting for retrial of remanded cases, on original charge.

This practice is generally followed in Missouri.

17. Prosecuting officers to be heard on parole questions. No parole or pardon to issue without a public statement five days in advance.

Prosecutors are consulted about paroles by most Judges in this State. Paroles and pardons are granted without advance public notice.

Appeal Bonds.

18. No appeal bond for convicted persons, except where trial court holds that the appeal is on reasonable grounds.

This is the Federal court system. In Missouri, appeal bonds must be accepted unless the offense is not bailable.

19. New regulations for cases in which insanity is pleaded as a defense.

Missouri now has most, but not all, of the proposed rules.

20. Judge to have power of overruling prosecutor's motion to enter order of nolle prosequi, and to have power to name special prosecutor.

Missouri judges are generally held not to have power to overrule a prosecutor who wishes to nol-pros a case. They have no power to name a special prosecutor.

Seek to Share in Huge Estate of Senator Clark

These three women have gone to Butte, Mont., to seek shares in the estate of the late Senator W. A. Clark, claiming they are his daughters. They are, left to right, Alma Clark Hines, Addie Clark Miller and Effie Clark McWilliams, all of Kansas City. The Clark estate is worth millions of dollars.

Would Mark Grave of First White Child

Arrow Rock, Mo., July 21.—The descendants of Daniel Thornton, whose son, Isaac, was the first white male child born in Saline county, are raising money to provide a marker for his grave in the old Concord Cemetery, four miles northwest of here.

Daniel Thornton was born in North Carolina and came to Saline county in 1816, settling at Concord, northwest, of Arrow Rock. He raised the first wheat in this part of the country and owned the first and only threshing floor here for a number of years. Farmers came from three counties, Pettis, Lafayette and Saline, to have their grain threshed out. At one time Thornton owned all the land for four miles back from the river.

Daniel Thornton is especially remembered here for the fact that he gave the land for the erection of the Concord Christian Church and was one of its influential members as long as he lived.

Lexington—Ninety of the 99 schools in Lafayette County show much better financial balances this year than last.

Declares Cold Drinks Will Not Harm Persons

Old-Fashioned Belief Is Bugaboo, Dr. Louis Stanley Of Bureau Of Home Economics Believes.

Washington, July 21.—The old-fashioned belief that ice water, iced tea and other cold beverages are injurious to health in summer is a bugaboo, Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the bureau of home economics of the agriculture department believes.

"Peoples need from two to five quarts of water daily in the summer and iced drinks cool the stomach," Dr. Stanley told the United Press. "When not taken in hugh quantities cold beverages are helpful instead of injurious. Of course, a person should not drink too much ice water."

The dietary expert said iced tea and iced coffee were good beverages to drink with meals. A dish of ice cream for dessert is appropriate for warm weather, she added.

People should be careful of their diet in hot weather, Dr. Stanley warned. Fat meats and heavy, bulky foods should be eliminated and fruits and vegetables substituted, she said.

"Every individual should eat less in summer than in winter," Dr. Stanley advised.

Attended Funeral of Mrs. Clark at Albany

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Catterson and Mrs. Louisa Catterson attended the funeral at Albany yesterday afternoon of the latter's niece, Mrs. Lou E. Clark, who died Sunday evening at Noyes Hospital in St. Jospeh following a week's illness. The service was held at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Clark's daughter, Mrs. W. S. Campbell, and Dr. Campbell.

Mrs. Clark was the widow of Samuel W. Clark, an attorney of Albany. She was prominent in lodge, church and social activities. Besides her daughter, she leaves her mother, three brothers and two sisters. Mrs. Clark had frequently visited the Catterson families here.

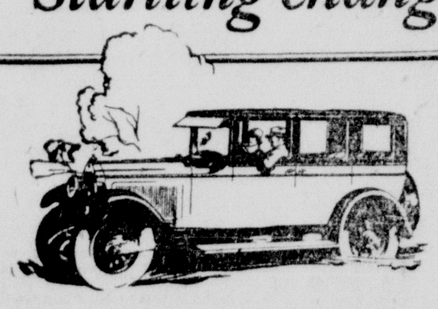
The fastest selling new Six of its price

Startling changes are here. Study them



"THE finest birds fly fast."

Here is the fastest-selling new Six of its price.

Six months old, yet 30,000 were sold the past ninety days. No equal.

This new "70" Willys-Knight Six is the most up-to-date car in America—and the most active.

It has the most powerful standard motor of its size in America.

The motor of this car is an exclusive feature—the famous Willys-Knight sleeve-valve motor, patented—a feature other manufacturers would pay millions to get.

Quieter and more powerful than any other motor of its size when new, it grows smoother, more powerful, more efficient with every mile.

It has no valves to grind. You never lay it up for carbon-cleaning.

It has no springs to weaken. It is practically foolproof and wear-proof.

No Willys-Knight motor, so far as we know, has ever worn out.

Sales prove the new "70" Willys-Knight Six is the car best suited for most families.

Please ride in it. You will find it the most economical and continuously satisfactory car you can own.

$1495 For This DeLuxe Knight Motored 4-Door Sedan

Speed between 60 and 70 honest miles an hour.
Extraordinarily long sustained high speed.
Power on any hill to pass most cars in high.
Quick as a cat—5 to 25 miles in 7½ seconds.
Powerful four-wheel mechanical brakes, the last word in safety.
54 horsepower, long stroke motor, rated at 20.
The tax saving is only part of its economy.

The new Willys Finance Plan means less money down, smaller monthly payments; and the lowest credit-cost in the industry.
